IMAREX is pleased to announce the launch of the IMAREX CurveDirector - a powerful but easy to use analytics tool and charting engine for freight and bunker fuel oil derivatives.

The IMAREX CurveDirector is a tool for traders and analysts, looking at trends in Tanker, SDry bulk and bunker fuel oil futures contracts.

The system is available 24 hours per day via the IMAREX website via subscription ONLY.

Shortly, the CurveDirector will be available directly via the IMAREX trading screen, and linked to individual contracts.

Using CurveDirector, traders and analysts can easily:

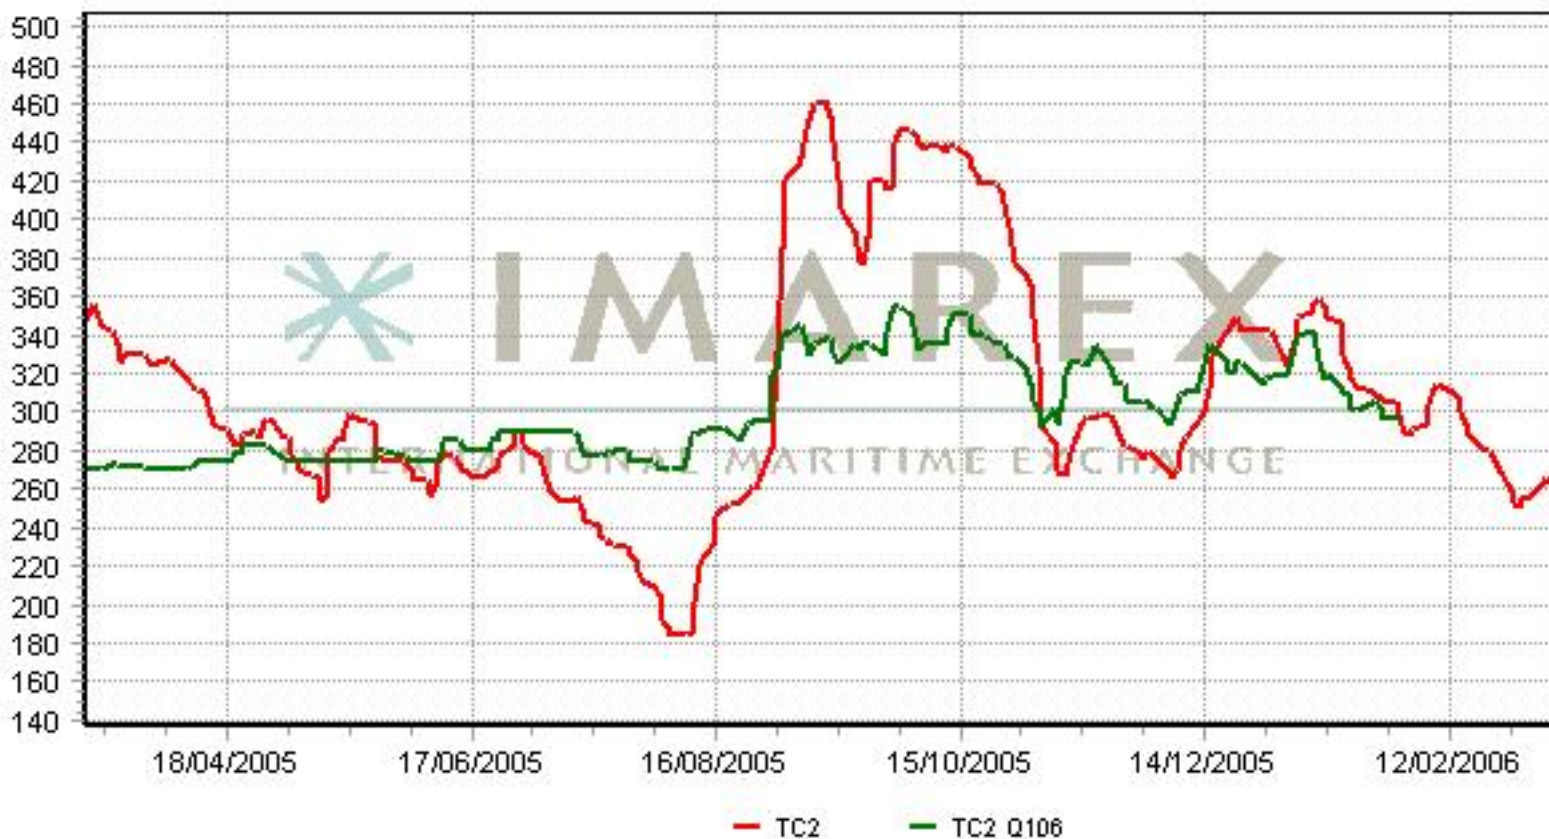

- Access historical price curves for ANY freight futures contract going back to 2002
- Perform SPREAD analysis between ANY two freight futures contracts
- Access ALL Historical forward curves
- Access ALL underlying data sets for off-line analysis
- Perform rolling contract analysis

Select up to four curves to chart and/or two curves to produce a spread:

"We've been asked to provide an easy to use tool for our trading members for some time. I think the CurveDirector will meet their requirements for both quality and ease of use," says Mikal Bøe, Head of Information Services at IMAREX.

The IMAREX CurveDirector enables freight and fuel oil traders to look at trends in futures contract pricing, and instantly assess specific investment cases. Execution of trades happens directly on the IMAREX screen or via IMAREX Exchange brokers.
